

About Les Jensen (Short Bio)

Les Jensen began his lifework as an engineer in broadcast television, where he worked every day with high-power television transmitters. This hands-on experience with immense amounts of energy would later convey to him the language that he would ultimately use in his spiritual writings.

While moving through immense mental and emotional struggles in his life, Les discovered that vast amounts of energy were present within his subconscious, which he came to recognize as his own personal karma. As he worked with his own energy, clearing out that which did not promote his dreams coming true, Les discovered a purity located in the core of his being. After releasing his unresolved subconscious patterns that had bound this energy, Les discovered an inner light within himself, a light that had always been there, the light of love itself.

In 2009, Les created New Human Living, a platform that promotes personal empowerment and Les' life purpose of being of service to others. He is also host of New Human Living Radio, where he enjoys insightful conversations with guests who are shaping the future of human consciousness.

Les' most recent book, Citizen King: The New Age of Power, was published by Balboa Press in July 2015, and talks about how we can show up in an authentic and powerful way, fulfilling the vision of our heart and soul. In 2013, Les wrote Personal Power Fundamentals, an e-book that reviews the fundamental nature of our own personal power, including how to overcome one's karmic propensities.

Les makes his home in Boulder, Colorado, USA. To learn more, please visit NewHumanLiving.com and LesJensen.com.

About Les Jensen (Full-Length Bio)

Les Jensen began his lifework as an engineer in broadcast television, where he worked every day with high-power television transmitters. This hands-on experience with immense amounts of energy would later convey to him the language that he would ultimately use in his spiritual writings.

While moving through immense mental and emotional struggles in his life, Les discovered that vast amounts of energy were present within his subconscious, which he came to recognize as his own personal karma. While experiencing a life-changing and powerful event while in his mid-thirties, Les discovered how we store the immense power of karma within our own personal energy persona. Working with immense amounts of energy during his career provided him with an understanding of the language needed to explain the nature of one's personal power.

As he began to study the nature of his own personal power, Les discovered an ocean of unconditional love within his own heart. He learned how to bring himself into alignment with it, discovering that limitless power actually expands the more you use it, and realizing that power as love itself. He understood that this love has no boundaries, no limits.

As he worked with his own energy, clearing out that which did not promote his dreams coming true, Les discovered a purity located in the core of his being. He was then able to map the energetic nature of his human experience, which also translated to the same energetic nature found in all of humanity. After releasing his unresolved subconscious patterns that had bound this energy, Les discovered an inner light within himself, a light that had always been there, the light of love itself.

Over time, Les came to understand this inner light as the light and love of his very soul, a point of Divine love that had immense power to it. His soul had a purpose in mind for his life. It had an idea of what his ideal life would look like.

Les began to honor this inner life purpose. He began to share this information with others so that they, too, could find their own inner light and set themselves free, living in this place of inner heaven while living out the human experience. Living from a place of authentic personal power. Living in the light. Living life fulfilled. Bringing Heaven to Earth and experiencing it—from the inside out.

In 2009, Les created New Human Living, a platform that promotes personal empowerment and Les' life purpose of being of service to others. He is also host of New Human Living Radio, where he enjoys insightful conversations with guests who are shaping the future of human consciousness.

Les' most recent book, Citizen King: The New Age of Power, was published by Balboa Press in July 2015, and talks about how we can show up in an authentic and powerful way, fulfilling the vision of our heart and soul. In 2013, Les wrote Personal Power Fundamentals, an e-book that reviews the fundamental nature of our own personal power, including how to overcome one's karmic propensities.

Les makes his home in Boulder, Colorado, USA, where he enjoys hiking, exploring the Rocky Mountains, and engaging others in passionate dialogue about the philosophy of our human nature.

To learn more, please visit NewHumanLiving.com and LesJensen.com.